CORN BOYS GETS DIPLOMAS

Certificates of merit were issued Friday from the Governor's office by the United Agricultural Board to 26 boys in Virginia who made more than 100 bushels of corn to the acre the past year. This work was done under the direction of the State board of education at its meeting in February. In addition to giving credit toward a summer school professional certificate for advanced work, to be done in the University of Virginia Summer School, the conference recommended a professional primary certificate to be given to holders of first grade and high school certificates after the completion of the specified course of two terms of six weeks each, or three terms of four weeks each, or three terms of four weeks each in any of the State summer schools.
